7-credit Technical Diploma

www.wctc.edu/import-export

If you enjoy coordinating processes and have an interest in how goods are shipped out of and into the country, a career in the import-export area may be right for you. The main responsibility of those working in this field is to ensure shipments adhere to customs regulations.

About This Program

Numerous global trade rules and regulations exist for the import and export of products, and these must be followed in order to be compliant. Learn U.S. import and export regulations, and develop a foundation on the customs import compliance process, export management, and the cultural, political, economic, legal and financial issues surrounding international business.

What Makes This Program Unique

- Participate in detailed discussion of topics including ECCN determination, restricted party screening, AES filing, certificates of origin, tariff classification, valuation and country of origin.
- Explore real-world examples of how companies manage compliance with import/export regulations.
