

Technical Studies - Journeyworker

60-credit Associate of Applied Science Degree

www.wctc.edu/tech-studies

The customizable approach of this program allows you to shape the associate degree to your technical interests and aptitudes, and it is up to you to determine which trade to pursue.

About This Program

This program is for those with a Wisconsin journey-level certificate from a registered apprenticeship program that included at least 400 hours of related instruction. Customize this degree program to meet your individual needs, while receiving up to 39 advanced-standing credits in the Technical Studies - Journeyworker program.

What Makes This Program Unique

- It meets individual career goals, which cannot be achieved through enrollment in any single instructional program currently offered at the College.
- Thanks to advanced-standing credits, just 21 more credits are needed to complete this associate degree: six associate degree-level elective credits in a trade-specific or management/business area and 15 general education credits.
- It identifies new and emerging occupations for new/modified programs.
- It meets the needs of those who want to pursue an associate degree on a full- or part-time basis.
